Solar and storage industry leaders from China and Europe gathered in Germany this week to advance cross-border partnerships, launch a bilateral storage collaboration platform, and coordinate strategies for scaling PV and battery deployment amid surging demand, grid pressures, and intensifying.

According to incomplete statistics from TrendForce's EnergyTrend, leading companies such as Chuneng New Energy and CATL have accelerated the signing of long-term supply agreements, solidifying their core supply chains and enhancing technological collaboration. Additionally, several firms, including.

Well, here's something you might've missed: Chinese energy storage companies have secured over 18.5 GWh of European contracts in Q1 2025 alone [3] [8]. From Britain's 4.4 GWh Thorpe Marsh project powered by Sungrow's liquid-cooled systems [4] to BYD's 1.6 GWh deal in Poland [9], these partnerships.

With the global photovoltaic energy storage market projected to hit $33 billion annually [1], China-Europe collaborations are rewriting the rules of renewable energy. But what's really going on behind those solar panels and battery farms?
